MAUI JIM JOINS ATP WITH EXCLUSIVE OFFICIAL EYEWEAR PARTNERSHIP

LONDON – The ATP and premium polarized sunglasses brand Maui Jim are proud to announce a new global partnership, in which the Hawaiian company becomes the Official Eyewear of the ATP World Tour.

As part of the three-year agreement, Maui Jim becomes an Official Supplier of the ATP World Tour, as well as the season-ending Barclays ATP World Tour Finals at The O2 in London. Benefiting from global marketing rights as well as an on-site presence at twelve tournaments across nine countries, the agreement will enable Maui Jim to engage with tennis fans across traditional and digital platforms.

Under the agreement, the premium polarized glass specialist will supply its products to ATP World Tour officials. Laurent Delanney, Commercial Director of the ATP World Tour said: “Maui Jim sunglasses offer unmatched comfort and protection when working in the sun. With 46 of our 62 tournaments played outdoors, the partnership will provide our ATP World Tour officials with helpful equipment to perform their duty at the highest level.”

“We are delighted to have joined forces with ATP as tennis is such a great fit for Maui Jim,” said Martijn van Eerde, Marketing Director for Europe. “For us this is a milestone, an expansion of Maui Jim’s tennis program and our involvement with the tennis community. Over the years, many players, coaches and line judges have discovered the benefits of our PolarizedPlus2® lens technology to improve their views of the game. This partnership with the ATP was the logical next step.”

Maui Jim brand ambassadors include sporting champions from across the globe, including ATP players David Ferrer, Benoît Paire, and Philipp Kohlschreiber and WTA player Martina Hingis.

Invented more than 30 years ago to combat the harsh rays of the Hawaiian sun, all Maui Jim sunglasses cut 100 percent of harmful UV rays and 99.9 percent of glare from above, below and behind each lens. Maui Jim’s PolarizedPlus2® lenses increase definition and depth perception, which is particularly important for tennis, and can be found in more than 112 different sunglass styles for men and women. The lenses come in four different lens materials, designed for optimal optics for a wide range of outdoor activities and sports, and in four different lens colors to enhance vision in varying light conditions. Maui Jim is the only company to use three rare earth elements, and other treatments, to white-balance its lenses, resulting in true color vibrancy. All of the sunglasses from the Hawaiian manufacturer have been recommended by The Skin Cancer Foundation as an effective UV filter for the eyes and surrounding skin.
