YEAR-END PIF ATP RANKINGS: ALCARAZ CLAIMS NO. 1; SINNER SHINES & #NEXTGENATP STARS SURGE

ATLANTIC BEACH, Florida - The ATP today published the 2025 year-end PIF ATP Rankings on ATPTour.com with Carlos Alcaraz finishing as ATP Year-End No. 1 presented by PIF.

The Spaniard enjoyed a back-and-forth battle with Jannik Sinner for top spot throughout the season before ultimately securing his second year-end No. 1 honour (also 2022).

At just 22 years old, Alcaraz has now held World No. 1 in the PIF ATP Rankings for 46 weeks, more than 15 other members of the prestigious ATP No. 1 Club. He recaptured the position from Sinner after winning the US Open and, with the exception of one week, has held it since.

Alcaraz is just the second active player to secure multiple year-end No. 1 finishes, joining Novak Djokovic (8). The Murcia native won eight titles to lead the ATP Tour. It was the most he has claimed in a season in his career.

Alcaraz showed great consistency, during one stretch reaching nine consecutive finals. He emerged victorious at two majors (Roland Garros and US Open), three ATP Masters 1000 events (Monte-Carlo, Rome and Cincinnati) and three ATP 500 tournaments (Rotterdam, Queen's Club and Tokyo).

Sinner held the top spot from the Monday after Roland Garros in 2024 through the Monday after this year's US Open, increasing his total to 66 weeks when he recaptured No. 1 for one week ahead of the Nitto ATP Finals. Alcaraz and Sinner were the only two players to hold World No. 1 this season.

Year-end No. 1 was still up for grabs in Turin, but Alcaraz swept his three round-robin matches to clinch year-end No. 1. Alcaraz and Sinner met six times this season, with the former winning four of their six Lexus ATP Head2Head showdowns. Sinner triumphed against the Spaniard on Sunday in the championship match of the Nitto ATP Finals, marking his second consecutive victory at the season finale.

Novak Djokovic finished in the year-end Top 5 for the 17th time, breaking a tie with Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal for the most in PIF ATP Rankings history. Ending 2025 as World No. 4, the Serbian reached the 100-titles mark in Geneva and added his 101st tour-level title in Athens. Only Jimmy Connors (109) and Roger Federer (103) own more singles trophies in the Open Era.

Alcaraz, Sinner and Zverev all were also in the year-end Top 5 in 2024. There are three players who finished the season in the year-end Top 10 for the first time: Lorenzo Musetti, Ben Shelton and Jack Draper. All three men had never cracked the Top 10 before 2025, but each reached No. 6 or higher in 2025.

In the year-end Top 10, there are two Italians (Sinner and Musetti) and two Americans (Fritz and Shelton). It is just the second time there have been two Italians in the same season, with Matteo Berrettini and Sinner doing so in 2021.

There are two lefties in the year-end Top 10: Shelton and Draper. It is the first time more than one lefty has finished a season in the elite group since 2010 (Rafael Nadal and Fernando Verdasco). Both Shelton and Draper cracked the Top 5, joining Nadal as the only lefties to do so this century.

2025 YEAR-END PIF ATP RANKINGS TOP 10

1) Carlos Alcaraz – Becomes one of only 11 players who have earned ATP Year-End No. 1 presented by PIF honours multiple times following a season in which he claimed a career-best eight titles.

2) Jannik Sinner – Earns second straight Top-2 finish, winning the two majors (Australian Open and Wimbledon), the Nitto ATP Finals, an ATP Masters 1000 trophy (Paris) and two ATP 500 events (Beijing and Vienna).

3) Alexander Zverev – Earns third year-end Top-3 finish, accomplishing the feat for the second consecutive year after finishing No. 2 in 2024.

4) Novak Djokovic – Claims 18th year-end Top 10 finish. Became just the third man to earn 100 tour-level titles and lifted multiple trophies for the 19th time in his career with victories in Geneva and Athens.

5) Felix Auger-Aliassime – Led the ATP Tour in tie-break wins (32) and deciding-set victories (20) in 2025 to return to the year-end Top 10 for the second time (also 2022).

6) Taylor Fritz – Finishes the season as the No. 1 American for the fifth consecutive year and reaches the 10-titles mark for his career with triumph in Eastbourne. Led the ATP Tour in aces with 867.

7) Alex de Minaur – Earns year-end Top 10 finish for second straight season and reaches the semi-finals of the Nitto ATP Finals for the first time. Claimed more hard-court triumphs (43) than any other player on Tour.

8) Lorenzo Musetti – Earns first year-end Top 10 finish behind a career-best season in which the Italian reached his maiden ATP Masters 1000 final in Monte-Carlo and made the Roland Garros semi-finals for the first time.

9) Ben Shelton – Breaks into the Top 10 in June and surges as high as No. 5, coming within one victory in Turin of finishing the year as the No. 1 American.

10) Jack Draper – Becomes the first Briton to finish in the Top 10 since Andy Murray claimed ATP Year-End No. 1 presented by PIF honours in 2016. Won his first ATP Masters 1000 title at Indian Wells.

2025 Year-End PIF ATP Rankings Quick Facts

- Jenson Brooksby jumped the most spots into the Top 100 of any player, surging from unranked to World No. 53.
- Reilly Opelka secured the biggest leap into the Top 50, ascending 243 spots from No. 293 to No. 50.
- 39-year-old Gael Monfils is the oldest player in the year-end Top 100 at No. 68. It is the second consecutive season in which the Frenchman has earned the distinction.
- There were two teens who finished inside the year-end Top 100: 19-year-olds Joao Fonseca and Learner Tien, the 2024 Next Gen ATP Finals presented by PIF finalists. No. 24 Fonseca won the first two ATP Tour titles of his career in Buenos Aires and Basel. No. 28 Tien tallied a 5-3 record against Top-10 opponents in 2025 and earned his maiden title in Metz.
